their third annual tournament at the Harvard School. No. 578 Fifth-ave., in this city. As the readers of The Tribune were fully informed by its daily reports as to this contest, little, if anything, need be added on the play. It was almost a foregone conclusion that Harvard, with Ballou and Van Kleeck as her representatives, would win hands down, the more so as Hymes, the hero of the two previous tournaments, could not battle any more for Columbia, and as the local 'varsity's team, Binion and Price, have not that style of play which carries success in tournament and match games.

It was generally expected that Yale would put up a good fight, and although both her men, Bumstead and Ross, fought gallantly in the first three rounds. they had to take second place all along the fight. It must be a great satisfaction to Princeton to have a pretty fair player in Seymour this season. The latter has done much better than the "Tigers" did on former occasions, and even Belden, the junfor player, did much better than former Princeton-ager of these contests, E. A. Caswell. As it is well known, he not only originated the scheme, but he attends to his duties in the most efficient manner. The whole thing is arranged satisfactorily to all concerned, every detail is looked after most thoroughly, and managers of chess clubs should pay the students a visit and learn how to manage a tournament. The meeting will wind up on Tuesday, then the final round will be played, and in the evening a reception will be given to the students, when, as the programme puts it, "song and speech" and "pipe and ale" will be the order of the day. The writer had many opportunities to be present at the varsity week in London, when Oxford and Cambridge used to meet, and it might be gratifying for the reader to hear that the intercollegiate games, as played here, are much more to be termed a social affair than the London contests.

Taubenhaus writes from Havana that he is at present engaged in a series of games with the strongest members of the Havana Club, and that he had won three games and drawn two up to December 23. Next week he will begin a match with Senor Vazquez, the Cuban giant, the winner to be he who scores best out of ten games.

On January 8 the first match for the champion.

ship of the Metropolitan League will be played, when the City and Newark Chess clubs will meet at the quarters of the former club. Great prepara tions have been made, and it goes without saying that these contests will prove an interesting series of fights over the checkered boards. Of all the clubs it seems that the City has been the most fortunate respecting the quality of the team. Showalter, Delmar, Kemeny, Voigt, Ettlinger, Jasnogrodsky, Halpern and Huntington have thrown in their lot with the City men, and if all the men should come to the scratch it is difficult to see how this team can speak a word or two about the trophy.

Who will battle for the Manhattans is an open question as yet. Hanham is reported to have said that he would not piay, neither does Schroeter feel inclined to Join the ranks of the premier club. The brothers Baird, however, Drs. Isaacson and Simonson will be available, and, after all, there might be a strong team in the field, as L. B. Hodges, the vice-president of the Staten Island Club, is said to have left the Staten Islanders and to have decided to play for the Manhattans.

The Newark team's main strength will be the three brothers Hymes, Steinberg and other well-known experts in the Mosquito State, while the Metropolitans will be led by Albin. The Staten Island Club minus Hodges cannot be expected to be dangerous at all. Still, the Islanders are a fighting lot, and, what is more, they know how to lose without setting out of temper.

The battle is fought and won, and J. W. Showalter is the victor in the struggle with Adolph Albin, who was defeated, but, as the saying goes, not disgraced. Appended is the score of the twenty-fifth and, as it proved, the last, game of the match, which was played at the Manhattan Chess Club on Friday.

CLOAKMAKERS IN GREAT DISTRESS.

It was said at the headquarters of the striking much distress still existed among the men and their families. The men still feel hopeful that they will win the fight, although the situation, the reporter was informed, was about the same as it had been for a long time. The hard times have prevented the other labor organizations from helping the cloakmakers as much as they would have done in better times, but the men are profoundly grateful for the help and sympathy they have received. The secretary of the Cloakmakers' Association said he secretary of the Cloakmakers' Association said he hoped soon to be able to make public some good news, but as yet the manufacturers remained firm and would do nothing to end the trouble between them and the men.

The great distress which exists among the cloakmakers and their families is plainly apparent in their emaciated features. Many of them are at starvation's door. Their sufferings have been increased by the cold weather, as many of them are insufficiently clothed and out of coal as well as food.

THEY THINK IT DOES NOT AFFECT THE POLICE, Corporation Counsel William H. Clark received a letter yesterday from Chief Clerk William H. Klpp, of the Police Department, in regard to men of the force being prohibited by the new Constitution from using the telephones without charge. In the letter it is pointed out that the use of the roads and the telephones has been an enormous aid to the force in rendering assistance in cases of fire, riot or accident, and the Police Commissioners at their meeting on Friday passed resolutions which said that, "If in the opinion of the Counsel to the Corporation it be necessary, he be respectfully requested to communicate with the Attorney-General of the State of New-York, with the view of affording to the members of the Police Department such privileges in transportation and telegraph service for public use as may be allowed to them under the Constitution. Commissioners Martin and Murray yesterday afternoon discussed the question. Mr. Martin said: "I am of the opinion that the new Constitution does not prohibit free transportation and the free use of telephones for policemen when they are engaged in public service. My idea of the meaning of the Constitution is that no public officer shall receive free transportation or the other privileges spoken of for his own private use. I do not believe it applies to in rendering assistance in cases of fire, riot or acci-

the police when they are compelled to use the rail-roads and telephones in the performance of public Commissioner Murray was of the same opinion as Mr. Martin.

THE IMMIGRATION CONFERENCE. The conference of the local immigration authori-tives and representatives from the Immigrant Bureaus of Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore ontinued at Ellis Island yesterday, Colonel Stump, National Commissioner of Immigration, being pres ent. Dr. Senner said, on returning to the city: "The proceedings were very informal. We had a general talk about the different kinds of routine work with a view of making the methods of Boston. Philadelphia and Baltimore uniform with those of this city. On Monday Colonel Stump, Assistant Commissioner McSweeney and myself, who were appointed last June, as an immigrant investigating committee, will meet. The conference will continue on Monday and daily thereafter till its work is completed."

NEW QUARTERS FOR A BRANCH POSTOFFICE The chief subject of interest in Postoffice circles in this city yesterday outside of the changes which of the investigation by Special Commissioners Machen and Shepherd, was the coming removal of Machen and Shepherd, was the coming removal of Station A from its present quarters at Houston and Crosby sts. to South Flith-ave, and Prince-st. The removal will be made on February I. The new branch postoffice will be the largest in the city, and the force of employes necessary to transact the business of the station will be about 150. There will be eighty-nine carriers, forty-three clerks and fifteen substitutes. The extent of the business which will be done at this station can be judged by the fact that it will exceed in volume the postoffice business of such cities as Albany and Rochester. There
